NORTHERN OHIO TOMATO FIELD NIGHT

TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 2013 • 6-8 P.M.

North Central Agricultural Research Station
1165 County Road 43
Fremont, OH 43420

Program

What’s new in tomato disease control
Insect pests in tomatoes and how to control them
Controlling tough weeds in tomatoes
Herbicide repercussions
What’s new in tomato breeding
Value added markets

Speakers

Doug Doohan, Horticulture and Crop Science, OARDC and OSU Extension
David Francis, Horticulture and Crop Science, OARDC
Sally Miller, Plant Pathology, OARDC and OSU Extension
Celeste Welty, Entomology, OARDC and OSU Extension

Contact Information

Matt Hofelich, 419-332-5142, hofelich.4@osu.edu or Mark Koenig, 419-334-6340 or koenig.55@osu.edu

Education Credits

Pesticide licensing recertification credits and Certified Crops Advisor CEU credits are available

Directions

Corner of County Road 43 and State Route 53, southwest of Fremont in Sandusky County

About

Processing tomatoes are a primary crop at the station, and emphasis is placed on developing new cultivars for the whole-pack peeled tomato market.