Holiday Reading
R. Precheur

Put down your favorite holiday reading whether it's Dicken's 'A Christmas Carol' or Moore's 'Twas the Night Before Christmas' because the first cultivar and research reports are now available. In the case of Moore, some in the academic community say he may not be the real author of 'Twas the Night before Christmas' and the poem should be credited to a British poet.

In any event, we know who did the following research and you can view these reports at the VegNet website or contact the authors for your own hardcopy or questions.

Now Available.....The First Cultivar and Research Reports of 2000 At the VegNet website or obtain a hardcopy
